Which of the five flights had the left-side FCC as active computer? The final two flights (red), where MCAS activated, were both first-of-the-day flights and so presumably under control of the left FCC. For the rest it's hard to tell, especially since maintenance operations may have entailed full shutdowns of the aircraft, which would have reset the alternation sequence.

There are some obvious discrepancies between the military data shown above and the ADS-B data shown in the previous figure. For one, the military data shows the turn towards BITOD starting after passing over IGARI. This "flyover" of IGARI is not consistent with how an aircraft following an automated path during the cruise part of the flight would turn between waypoints.
